The member complained that the present value of future bonus included in the upset price of land containing sandal trees disposed of to the raiyats was in most cases excessive and that the rule required considerable revision. He requested that the rules that were being adopted in the Shimoga Taluk where no restrictions of the kind were imposed might also be applied in the case of Honnali and Nagar Taluks where the difficulty was particularily great.

Reply of Government.—The question will be examined.

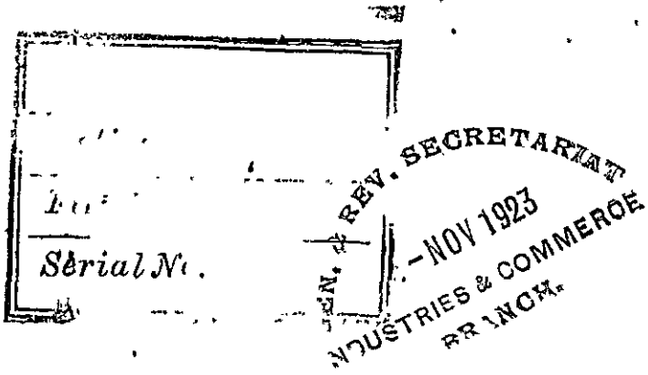
The abolition of the levy of Sandal bonus in the Honnali Taluk

October 1923

DIARY NO. 1824



Summary of discussion -

7) The present arrangement obtaining in the Honnali Taluk requiring the bonus amoun on Sandal trees on lands applied for f cultivation, to be paid along with the sale amount of the assessed waste lands containing sandal trees, is causing great inconvenience to those who pply or wish to take such lands for cultiva- tion. It is represented therefore tha such lands in Honnali and other Taluks may be given out on the guarantee of the applicant for the ~~supply~~ Safety of such trees.

Reply of Government.

8) The question of removing the restr ction placed on the disposal of assesse waste lands containing sandal growth in the Honnali and Nagar Taluks, will be favourably considered.

Note.

Under Rule 41 A of the Revenue Rules the applicant for the grant of land for cultivation is required to pay the upset value of the land which includes the present value of the bonus payable to the occupant.

2. In the years 1909 to 1913, the representative members of the R. A. moved for the cancellation of this rule on the ground that in Malnad, this rule hampered the expansion of cultivation. After a careful consideration of the question, Government modified the Rule by adding a proviso to the Rules for the exemption of certain areas from the operation of the rule.

3. The rule as thus modified does not apply to Nagur and Honnali Talkuks of the Shimoga District, where the applicants for lands with sandal growth, are required to take them in auction ~~and~~ where an upse price for the land is fixed with referenc to the value of the future bonus ~~on~~ Sanda wood trees on the land.

4. The representatives at the R.A. meeting of 1915 and 1918 moved for the inclusion of the Nagur and Honnali Taluks among the areas to which the special rule of May 1915 applied.

This request was not considered in view of certain concessions granted for the encouragement ~~of~~ for the growth of Sandalwood

The subject was moved last year also. The Conservator of Forests who was consulted is against the extension of the rule to the Taluks in question.
